

Your community needs you, Volunteer for a board or commission!

Greeley's Human Relations Commission challenges every individual in our community to step forward and become actively involved in making Greeley a better community. The Greeley City Council supports this challenge and invites you to apply to serve on one of the City's volunteer boards and commissions. These groups advise City Council on issues that impact the entire community.

As a volunteer board or commission member, you can:

1. Develop new relationships;
2. Share concerns and help resolve problems;
3. Have a venue for healthy and harmonious discussions of dissimilar orientations and opinions;
4. Share a skill and gain a new one.

Together, we can:

1. Celebrate and serve together in building community in Greeley;
2. Be advocates for our community and make Greeley a better place to live;
3. Foster a greater understanding of each others' cultures and experiences;
4. Provide different perspectives and concerns to help resolve problems through specific action.

Please consider applying for one of these volunteer positions, your help is needed! An application is provided on the reverse side. A list of the City of Greeley's Boards and Commissions is provided below. Additional information is available on the City's web site, City Clerk's Office, Boards and Commissions.
