Greeley Historic Preservation Commission presents this inaugural annual report to the Greeley City Council and to the citizens of Greeley.

Historic Preservation Commission Mission Statement

The mission of the Greeley Historic Preservation Commission is to identify, preserve and enhance Greeley’s historic resources. Through research, educational programs and economic incentives, the Commission will build upon public enthusiasm for the protection of the unique character of the community’s past and present for the future.

Greeley Historic Register

The Greeley Historic Register is comprised of 82 individually designated properties as of the last day of 2010 and includes residences, commercial buildings, parks, an irrigation ditch, an artesian well, a sign, schools, churches, and a depot. These properties are designated through nomination to the Commission and approval is based on significance of architecture, history or association with persons instrumental to the growth of the city.

The City of Greeley boasts two Historic Districts (Monroe Avenue Historic District, Downtown Greeley Historic District) on the Register.

During 2010 three properties were reviewed by the Commission and designated on the Greeley Historic Register.

Interns
The City of Greeley Historic Preservation Office utilizes interns from area universities, including the University of Northern Colorado, University of Colorado and Colorado State University. The interns assist with historic resource surveys, property documentation, historic preservation event planning, walking tour planning, assisting with records management, attending meetings and other tasks. They provide a valuable service to the City in performing tasks creating high quality products while getting a variety of preservation-related experiences.

2010 interns and volunteers
Jim Bertolini, Colorado State University
Amy Cook, Colorado State University
Eric Sainio, Colorado State University
Scott Wisniewski, University of Colorado, Denver
Christy Dickinson (volunteer)
Alison Connell (volunteer)

- Jim Bertolini provided a report on historic resources in the Kiwanis Park area with a template spreadsheet for use in our Sunrise survey and developed and led a walking tour through the neighborhood.
• Amy Cook provided research to assist with the development of a brochure about energy conservation in historic commercial buildings for the Natural Resources office.

• Christy Dickinson returned to volunteer after working as an intern in the fall of 2008, helping with the Germans from Russia Windows of Time and working with a property owner to get the house listed on the Colorado Register of Historic Properties.

Members of City Council and Citizens of Greeley:

The Greeley Historic Preservation Commission presents this first Annual Report, describing the work and accomplishments of the Commission in 2010. We hope to highlight the rich historical context of Greeley and the vibrancy of preservation efforts by its citizens.

During 2010, the Commission was proud to designate three additional properties to the Greeley Historic Register and to approve 18 applications for repairs or modifications to previously listed properties. The Commission also assisted property owners with incentives, such as building permit refunds and tax credit reviews to further preservation of our historic properties. Grants were obtained for training of commissioners and for interpretive panels for the POW Camp 202 gateposts. Commissioners and staff travelled to Pueblo to establish contact with the Pueblo Commission and to study preservation efforts in another city with many features in common with Greeley.

By detailing accomplishments of 2010, the Greeley Historic Preservation Commission aspires to increase community awareness of past success and future promise of historic preservation in Greeley.
