

“In keeping with Greeley’s long-standing tradition of securing water well into the future for her citizens, the Terry Ranch Project presents an unprecedented opportunity for our current City Council to make their mark on Greeley water history. Access to 1.2 million acre-feet of water in an efficient and environmentally responsible manner will have a profound, lasting impact on Greeley’s future, akin to WD Farr’s foresight some 75 years ago.

The magnitude of this opportunity to preserve Greeley’s access to our most precious natural resource cannot be overstated, and failure to act on this measure would be irresponsible and short-sighted. I invite all Greeley citizens to examine the facts surrounding this opportunity – there is much to learn and our leadership has positioned us well to secure our future needs. Please join me in encouraging our City Council to support the Terry Ranch Project.”
